Part I: Introduction

The Asia-Japan Women's Resource Center (AJWRC) was founded in 1995 with the aims of ending all forms of violence and discrimination against women, promoting human rights and social justice, and empowering women. In order to achieve these goals, AJWRC works with the following three programs: (i) Information Sharing and Networking: publishing a quarterly journal in Japanese and a biannual English journal, production of educational materials, disseminating information through internet, and providing for a women's information reference service; (ii) Training and Education: Organizing seminars and workshops on various gender issues, providing lectures and training programs, and organizing study tours; and (iii) Advocacy and Campaign: Monitoring cases and policies that may affect women's rights, running ad-hoc and long-term campaigns, conducting research and surveys, and participating in policy dialogue with governments and international bodies.

Part II: Contribution of AJWRC to the work of the United Nations

i) Participation in the work of the Economic and Social Council and other major United Nations meetings: (i) Ten-Year-Review and Appraisal of the Beijing Platform of Action (BPFA) and the Beijing+5 (2004-2005). AJWRC actively participated in national, regional and global women's NGO efforts against renegotiation of the internationally agreed goals and to urge Member States to reaffirm their commitment to the BPFA. AJWRC's activities in this regard include: preparation of a Japanese women's NGO joint review report, especially on the issue of Armed Conflicts and Women; participation in the Asia-Pacific NGO Forum, 6-9 September 2004, Bangkok, Thailand, to prepare regional NGO documents and to organize a workshop on remedies for victims of sexual violence under conflicts; sending Japanese and Asia-Pacific NGO letters to urge governments to fully reaffirm the BPFA; and participation and lobbying at the 52nd Session of the Commission on the Status of Women, 18 February–11 March 2005, United Nations headquarters New York, where AJWRC representative participated in Peace Caucus and made an oral intervention; (ii) 56th session of the Sub-Commission on the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights, 26 July – 13 August 2004, Geneva, Switzerland. AJWRC representatives attended to make oral statements on the issues of the Japanese military sexual slavery, and the right to education; (iv) 38th Session of the Committee Against Torture, 30 April – 18-May 2007, Geneva, Switzerland. AJWRC coordinated submission of the first Japanese NGO report on violation of women's rights with support of the World Organisation Against Torture (OMCT), and attended the session for lobbying. AJWRC further urged the Japanese Government to follow-up on the recommendations made by the Committee by sending a letter that was co-signed by 26 organizations and 112 individuals; (v) AJWRC also jointly submitted an NGO letter to urge the Japanese government to reaffirm its commitment to the promotion of reproductive health/rights in its statement in the "World Summit 2005" in August 2005, and an NGO statement on the report on Japan by the United Nations Special Rapporteur on Racism in September 2006.

4. Palestinian Centre for Human Rights (Special; 2000)

Part 1: Introduction

1. The Palestinian Centre for Human Rights (PCHR) is an independent Palestinian human rights organization and non-profit company based in Gaza city. PCHR was established in 1995 by a group of Palestinian lawyers and human rights activists, in order to (i) protect human rights, and promote the rule of law in accordance with international standards, (ii) create and develop democratic institutions and an active civil society, while promoting democratic culture within Palestinian society, and (iii) support all efforts aimed at enabling the Palestinian people to exercise their inalienable rights with respect to self-determination and independence in accordance with international law and UN resolutions. In the fulfilment of its mandate, PCHR provides pro bono legal assistance and representation, engages in international advocacy, and contributes to an understanding of the human rights situation in the Gaza Strip, and the Occupied Palestinian Territory (OPT) through the preparation of numerous reports and position papers.

2. On 6 October 2005, PCHR was accepted as an organizational member of the International Legal Assistance Consortium (ILAC). In addition, in March 2007, the Centre became a member of the International Coalition Against the Death Penalty.

Part II. Contribution of the Organization to the Work of the United Nations

1) Participation in the work of the Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies and/or major conferences and other United Nations meetings.

2) Cooperation with United Nations bodies and/or specialized agencies in the field and/or at Headquarters.

PCHR's mandate is fully consistent with the principles and purposes of the United Nations, particularly as these relate to 'encouraging universal respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms'. PCHR actively participates in the appropriate intergovernmental fora as extensively as possible. However, the closure regime imposed on the Gaza Strip by Israeli authorities is very restrictive in this regard. Consequently, PCHR primarily advances the work of the United Nations via its widespread work in the OPT. The Centre's documentation serves as a principal point of reference, both for organisations of the United Nations – such as, inter alia, the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA), the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) – and other international human rights organisations, such as Human Rights Watch and Amnesty International. Through the provision of extensive and credible documentation and reporting, PCHR attempts to circumvent the closure regime, and advance the protections extended to the civilian population of the OPT.

This report covers four areas of PCHR's work as it relates to ECOSOC's mandate: (i) the provision of pro bono legal aid, (ii) documentation and reporting, (iii) international advocacy, and (iv) training. Only those issues specifically relating to Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ESCR) will be detailed herein, consequently the presented data only represents a fraction of PCHR's total work in the pursuit of its mandate, and the promotion of human rights.

(i) Legal Aid

Throughout the reporting period, PCHR extended extensive pro bono legal aid and representation to its clients. Numerous cases, pertaining to issues of personal status and family law, were taken before the domestic shari'a court system. Many of these cases relate to instances of institutionalized gender-based discrimination. PCHR also pursues criminal cases before the Israeli courts. Only those cases concerning ECOSOC-mandated issues – such as, inter alia, restrictions on freedom of movement, house demolitions, destruction of property, confiscation of land, and attacks on fishermen – will be discussed herein.

In 2004, 321 cases were taken before the shari'a court system, while 696 criminal cases were pursued before Israeli courts. In 2005, 452 cases were taken before the shari'a court system, while 655 criminal cases were pursued before Israeli courts. In 2006, 596 cases were taken before the shari'a courts, and 213 criminal cases were pursued Israeli courts. In 2007, 547 cases were taken before the shari'a court system, and 217 criminal cases were pursued before Israeli courts. Over the reporting period, free legal advice was extended to countless individuals.

(ii) Documentation and Reporting

In order to provide detailed information relating to the human rights situation in the OPT, PCHR carries out extensive documentation and reporting related to civil and political rights as well as social, economic and cultural rights. Each year, specific reports are prepared on issues pertinent to the ECOSOC and UN wide mandates, including both annual and periodic reports: for example, reports on: 'the impact of the Israeli closure of the Gaza Strip on Economic Social and Cultural Rights' and 'Israeli violations of the right of Palestinians to Worship Freely'.

In 2004, 21 in-depth reports were published in addition to 17 ESCR-related press statements and field workers investigated 4,130 cases relating to ESCR violations. In 2005, 13 specific in-depth reports, and 17 ESCR press statements were released, while field workers investigated 47 ESCR-related cases. In 2006, 24 in-depth reports were released, as well as 20 ESCR-related press releases, field workers documented, inter alia, 934 house demolitions, and the razing of 4,419 donumms[1] of agricultural land. In 2007, 14 in-depth reports were released, in addition to 30 ESCR-related press releases and PCHR field workers documented, inter alia, 131 house demolitions and the razing of 1190 donumms of agricultural land.

(iii) International and regional advocacy

PCHR contributes widely to human rights based advocacy -despite the difficulties of movement and access to and from the Gaza Strip -both via participation in international and regional conferences and meetings, and in receiving international and regional delegations. In the reporting period, PCHR representatives attended 106 international meetings, including specific delegations to France and the United Kingdom in 2004 and the UN Conference of NGOs in Palestine in 2006. In the reporting period PCHR received 134 delegations; including Pierre Sane Assistant Director of the General Social and Human Sciences Sector at UNESCO, Costanza Farina, Head of Office at UNESCO in 2004, the Special Rapporteur of the Commission on Human Rights on the Situation of Human Rights in the OPT in 2004, 2005, 2006, and the Head of Regional Political Affairs of UNESCO and the Head of UN OHCHR in 2007. From 2004-2005 PCHR made 14 interventions, and joint interventions, to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights and ECOSOC, on topics such as the integration of the human rights of women and the gender perspective, and the rights of the child. In 2006, the international unit produced an intervention to the United Nations on the deliberate destruction of Palestinian infrastructure and massive escalation of human rights violations in the Gaza Strip as well as an intervention to the United Nations General Assembly on the construction of the separation barrier in the West Bank, and an intervention to the United Nations High Commissioner on Human Rights. In addition, PCHR Director Raji Sourani attended ECOSOC sessions in Geneva 7/8 September 2006, and PCHR staff member Eoin Murray attended ECOSOC sessions on 8/9 March 2005.

3) Initiatives undertaken by the organization in support of the Millennium Development Goals

(iv) Training

The outreach, education and training undertaken by PCHR contributed to the protection of civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights. During the reporting period (2004-2007) PCHR conducted 76 training sessions with a broad range of participants; including human rights courses for school staff members, female police, women's rights activists, young lawyers, and medical professionals, NGOs, and human rights observers. Responding to MDG 3 (promoting gender equality and empower women) PCHR monitored female participants in trainings; in 2007, out of a total of 482 trainees, 54.6% were Palestinian women. Also responding to MDG 3, the women's unit organized lectures on the rights of women and children – 407 in the reporting period – and several workshops on legal protection mechanisms for victims of violence against women, women and political participation and women and the law. In 2007 the training unit organized 14 lectures, targeting 300 individuals, on the rights ensured by human rights law, including the International Covenant of Economic, Social and Cultural Rights. The women's unit and training unit carried out its activities in cooperation and coordination with a number of United Nations agencies, including, inter alia, OHCHR, UNRWA and UNIFEM.

In order to achieve and fulfil these commitments, FOCSIV is involved in different activities: (i) Development projects: Over the past 35 years, more than 15,000 Italian volunteers have been in the field on a long and short-term basis, offering their care support and professional skills in FOCSIV projects. In 2007, FOCSIV had 647 volunteers in 77 countries, with 766 development interventions that benefited 42 million people. FOCSIV is firmly convinced that concrete and long-term efforts, such as those made by our voluntary workers, can contribute step by step to the emancipation of every human beings, through real and fruitful exchanges between peoples, building bridges of solidarity between poor and rich countries; (ii) Voluntary service and training: "InformarVi" is the information desk of FOCSIV, which was created for those who are just discovering the International Voluntary Service for the first time. The desk offers information on training courses and concrete possibilities and opportunities to be engaged abroad, through international voluntary service, voluntary civilian service, work camps, responsible travel tours, and the United Nations Volunteers Programme (UNV), FOCSIV is the UNV - Focal Point for Italy since 1997. Besides, the Voluntary service and Training Office in collaboration with the Development project office defines the projects involving civilian service volunteers, selects and recruits volunteer candidates, organises training courses, and monitors related volunteer activities in the field; (iii) Campaigns, public awareness and development education: On a parallel basis, the Federation promotes sensibility and development education campaigns in Italy as powerful multiplier of international solidarity, focusing on United Nations inputs or following the main international meetings.

Some of the most important campaigns and events launched in the last years (2004-2007): (i) In 2002 FOCSIV, in collaboration with other Non Governmental Organisations, launched the "No dumping" campaign to abolish the subsidy to the exports and to affirm food sovereignty in developing countries. The main tool of the campaign was an online postcard calling on government representatives and European Union Institutions to design and adopt policies aimed to half extreme poverty and hunger within 2015. Besides, during 4 years (2002-2005) FOCSIV staff travelled along Italy holding seminars and meetings and delivering posters, cards, publications and booklets. In 2005, FOCSIV collected more than 50,000 signatures and the online adhesion of 3,238 campaign supporters. The campaign concluded with 80,000 postcards sent to the Italian Prime Minister, Silvio Berlusconi and the former European Commissioner for Trade, Pascal Lamy; (ii) In 2007, FOCSIV participated at the Cooperation Internationale pour le Developpement et la solidarite (CIDSE)-Caritas Internationalis joint campaign "Make Aid Work, The World Can't Wait". The mass mobilisation urged the world's most powerful leaders to keep promises made at the G8 Summit in United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland (Gleneagles, 6–8 July 2005) at the G8 summit in Germany (Heiligendamm, 6-8 July 2007). At national level, the campaign was carried out in collaboration with the major Italian catholic associations. The important event of the campaign was the "Bishops Tour". A tour in which Catholic Church leaders from both developed and developing countries met with British Prime Minister Tony Blair, German Chancellor Angela Merkel, Italian Prime Minister Romano Prodi, and Pope Benedict XVI; (iii) Advocacy and lobbying: Finally, the Federation carried out lobbying activities within national and international institutions. At national level FOCSIV has carried out activities to call on Parliament and Government, in particular on Prime Minister, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Ministry of Social Solidarity, Ministry for Agriculture and Forestry Policy. At international level, FOCSIV has consolidated its relations both with the European Union and the European Parliament by a constant dialogue with Development Directorate-General and Youth Directorate-General.
